SIXTY-FOURTH YEAR No. 10 CEDARVILLE, OHIO, FRIDAY, JAN. 31, 1941

CONGRESSIONAL HAPPENINGS IN WASHINGTON

By CLARENCE J. BROWN
Member of Congress,
Seventh Ohio District

That the Congress believes in a strong national defense for the United States has again been proven by the prompt method in which the House has passed two important bills for the enlargement and betterment of the Navy. The Naval Affairs Committee met in extraordinary and lengthy sessions to hear naval experts explain the need of armor plate protection against aerial bombs for the decks and upper parts of the present battleships; and also the need for approximately four hundred new ships of various types, the construction of new navy yards, etc., to bring the American naval forces up to a high state of efficiency. Last week the naval bills were reported to the House. One, authorizing appropriations of three hundred million dollars for modernizing the present fleet, was quickly passed without dissenting vote. The other, carrying nine hundred and nine million dollars for new ship construction and other extensions of naval facilities, had two votes cast in opposition to it in the House. Another bill, authorizing the expenditure of three hundred and fifty million dollars by the United States Maritime Commission for the construction of some three hundred emergency cargo ships, also received the approval of the House.

For the past two weeks staid room has been at a high premium in the Ways and Means Committee room, where the House Committee on Foreign Affairs has been conducting hearings on the Lease-Lend Bill. Last week such national figures as Charles Lindbergh, General Hugh Johnson, Norman Thomas, Hamilton McNider, Ambassador to Great Britain Kennedy, and others appeared before the Committee. Early this week the Committee began executive sessions to discuss within the Committee many of the numerous proposed amendments to the measure. It is believed that the Bill will be brought out on the floor of the House for debate late this week with the final vote coming some time next week. Hearings on the Bill before the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate opened Tuesday.

Individual members of Congress are beginning to breathe naturally again as they gradually recover from the shock and surprise of the contents of the Lease-Lend Bill. When the legislation for aid to Britain was first discussed it was assumed by those in Congressional circles that some simple and direct method for granting such aid would be presented. It was the general consensus of opinion that the British aid proposal would provide for the extension of credits or direct loans to the British government when and as the need therefor was demonstrated, and that such credits or loans would be so placed at the disposal of the British government as to permit that government to continue its present purchasing program of war supplies under its own control and in direct contact with American manufacturers. Most Congressmen could not believe their eyes when they read the new proposed legislation, which in no way provides direct aid to Great Britain, but instead gives to President power to extend or withhold aid from any country as he may decide. If the proposed bill becomes a law and the British Empire is given aid by the United States, the President will have full control over the fixing of what such aid shall be and the purchasing and supplying thereof. No longer will the British government be able to make its own contracts direct with American manufacturers, based upon its own specifications. Members of Congress are also pointing out that even if the Lease-Lend Bill is passed it would be impossible to furnish Britain with any more goods or war supplies than that government is receiving from America at the present time unless the United States is to strip its own Army and Navy of supplies and armament, in which both are now fatally deficient. Secretary Knox and others in their testimony before the Foreign Affairs Committee insisted that it was absurd to even hint that the broad powers contained in the bill would be used by the President to transfer a part of the United States Navy to Britain. However, it cannot be forgotten that less than a week before the official announcement was made of the recent transfer of the fifty destroyers to Britain Mr. Roosevelt had denied emphatically that any such move was even being considered.

Latest indications are that the Lease-Lend Bill will face a stiff fight in the Senate.

An additional appropriation was ordered last year by the court when $12,446.03 was set aside for construction of a dog pound.

BISHOP PAUL JONES AGAINST LEND-LEASE BILL IN DEBATE

Bishop Paul Jones, Antioch College, in debate with former Congressman-Largo John McSweeney, at the Columbus Y. M. C. A., Monday evening, opposed the enactment of the lend-lease bill demanded by Roosevelt. McSweeney supported the bill because he said we have no international law today. One strong argument against the bill is that it would make the United States the policeman of the entire world and our soldiers would have to be sent on call of the first outbreak whether in Europe or China.

Roosevelt To Open "Game Preserve" Says Local Farmer

The legislature now has a bill before it for open season on quail in this state. Some twenty years ago quail were added to the list of song birds and shooting or killing them in any manner became a violation of the state law.

During recent years several attempts have been made to repeal the old law, but public sentiment seemed to overwhelm support of sportsmen. Farm organizations went on record against the proposal. Civic organizations have never sympathized with the idea. The reason farm organizations protest mainly is the damage that is done each year to livestock and fences under the limited hunting season that prevails now.

One of our farmer friends calls us by phone upon learning of the proposed change favoring open season for quail to urge opposition to the suggestion. When asked what his public view might be he stated:

"Sportsmen in the county and state should not overlook the fact that Franklin Roosevelt is preparing to open the largest 'preserve' that will permit open season the Fourth of July or Christmas. Moreover he will provide a fine rifle, plenty of ammunition, a warm suit and a tent for shelter at night. Both single and married men will be given their chance. After opening of the 'preserve,' there will be no discrimination. Age only will be a barrier and within the next year probably all those up to 60 would get the necessary Roosevelt permit, gun and suit."

Continuing said the farmer, "Lovers of gun sport will hear all the booming they are looking for in any one year and smell more burnt powder than will ever be possible hunting quail."

Hugh Turnbull Named Member of State Resolutions Committee

Hugh Turnbull president of the Greene county association of township Trustees and Clerks, has been appointed a member of the Resolutions Committee of the State Association by State President Joe R. Thomas, Haystack.

The Resolutions Committee will meet during the Thirteenth Annual Convention of the State Association to be held in Columbus, Ohio, January 30, 31 and February 1st.

The part that the township can play in the National Defense program is one of the principal matters to be discussed at the convention, according to State Secretary Charles P. Baker, Jr., Painesville.

Association leaders believe that the townships which are essentially local in character, such as administering emergency poor relief outside of cities, maintaining the 40,000 miles of township roads, increasing fire protection in the rural areas, etc. Township officials say they can carry on these governmental functions more cheaply than the centralized units, thus conforming to Governor Bricker's plea to keep state and local expenditures at a minimum and allow all tax funds possible to be used for national defense.

"Industry and National Defense" will be the subject of Paul S. Clapp, Vice President of the Columbia Gas and Electric Corporation, who will address the convention Friday morning at Memorial Hall.

Others on the three day program are Governor John W. Bricker, Oscar G. Dunn, president of the County Commissioners, Jacob D. Spiegel, president of the N. J. Association and H. A. Thomson, chairman of the National Association of Township Officials.

The annual banquet and floor show was held in the main ball room of the Deshler-Wallick Hotel, Thursday evening. The Old Times held a luncheon Thursday noon at the Hotel Seneca and the county association officers will have a dinner meeting Friday evening at the Deshler.

Ohio Publishers Entertain Governor And State Officials

The Ohio Newspaper Association was host last Friday evening to Governor Bricker, members of the legislature, Supreme Court and state officials at a banquet dinner in the Deshler Hotel, Columbus. Dr. W. R. McChesney, Greene county representative, was among the members of the Assembly present.

The banquet concluded a two-day convention session of three groups of newsmen, the Select List, Associated Buckeye and the Ohio Newspaper association, the executive organization for all newspaper interests in the state.

Governor John W. Bricker spoke on state issues and his promise to cooperate with taxing districts as far as possible but that state obligations must be met also.

Albert H. Murrill, president of the Kroger Grocery and Baking Co., Cincinnati, spoke on freedom of the press and its relation to all citizens, it not being of interest only to publishers. Freedom of the press was freedom for individuals and organizations and their right to express their opinions unmolested.

Louis E. Wiley of the Cincinnati Enquirer was toastmaster and Roy D. Moore of the Brush-Moore newspapers presided.

The association re-elected three trustees for three-year terms. They were R. B. Howard of the Madison Press, London; J. A. Van Buren of the Plain Dealer in Cleveland and E. C. Dix of the Wooster Record.

Dog Owners Warned About Quarantine

County Dog Warden John W. Coates, Jr., warned dog owners throughout the county Wednesday to keep canines confined to their own premises since strict enforcement of the dog quarantine now in effect is necessary to stamp out rabies.

The quarantine, placed in effect, Jan. 3, was termed fairly effective but dog owners in the Jamestown and Cedarville areas have been careless in permitting their pets to run at large, he said. Xenia city has not been placed under quarantine. Although few cases of rabies have been reported, the malady is still prevalent here and elimination of the disease is sought by the dog warden.

FARMERS FEAR DANGER ON ICY ROADS

Snow and ice covered roads over most all of Ohio had much to do with holding down attendance at the twenty-ninth annual Farmers' Week at the Ohio State University, Columbus.

Addressing the association Monday, V. R. Wertz, extension specialist in rural economics, said that turkey prices this year will remain about the same as in 1940.

He cited figures which show that Ohio in 1940 raised eight times as many turkeys as it did in 1929, 1,421,000 compared to 177,000. Meanwhile, in the 11-year period, turkey production in the United States has only doubled, now reaching the figure of 33,000,000.

Mrs. John Maddy, Perryburg, was re-elected chairman of the Ohio Home Demonstration Council. Other officers include Mrs. Charles Bell, Holmes County, vice-chairman, and Mrs. E. Kuster, of Darke County, secretary-treasurer.

Experiments at Beltsville, Md., to develop strains of cattle that approach genetic purity for factors controlling high production were explained by A. B. Mystem, senior extension dairyman for the United States Department of Agriculture, in an address in Plumb Hall.

R. T. Blausen, of the OSU Department of Agricultural Engineering, told farmers that 145,000 Ohio farm homes had high line electric service in 1940, as compared with 17,000 in 1923.

At noon Tuesday five outstanding Ohio farmers gathered at the university to receive the degree of Master Farmer in one of the highlights of the Farmers' Week program.

Mrs. Lewis Miko, Put-in-Bay, O., westward bound with her husband and daughter, suddenly found her car had skidded from the road. The Miko family was bound for Florida.

Osborn Strike Has Been Settled

The men got a 7 cent an hour increase in wages, vacation pay, seniority rights and semi-open shop rules. The union had demanded a closed shop. The increase in wages will require 35 weeks pay to equal what has been lost in wages during the strike. Meanwhile it cost Greene county several hundred dollars for guardsmen to preserve order and protect property.

HELP THE GOVERNOR KEEP HIS CAMPAIGN PROMISE

Governor John W. Bricker made a campaign promise that he would not approve any new taxes in the state when he first became governor. He has renewed the same promise for his second term.

At present there is a movement of mayors and city managers in the cities of the state to urge a greater division of sales tax, motor vehicle or other taxes with municipalities to meet increased costs of operation. A drive is to be made on the legislature by municipal officials to get the law changed.

These same officials take issue with the Governor in stating that Ohio must pay its debts, especially the school debt left by Martin L. Davey. The state must pay banks interest on several million dollars that was borrowed and the Governor insists a large part of this debt must be paid to stop interest charges.

It is unfortunate that municipal officials would even ask a public official to disregard his campaign pledge. The Governor has promised when the time comes all will gather around the table and discuss the situation but he makes it plain—no new taxes.

Most of the Ohio cities are in desperate financial condition but it is not fault of the state of Ohio. Most every city, except Cincinnati, has lived beyond its income. Much money has been wasted on poor relief. More on work relief such as tearing up good sidewalks in order that more labor would be employed to put down new walks, the government paying labor, the city and property owner paying for material.

Ohio should not be asked to pay for the folly of municipal spending in the state. Cities should be compelled to live within their income, even at the expense of sacrifice on certain questionable services.

Congressman Clarence J. Brown points out that there is a real difference between the American Defense Program and the President's lend-lease legislation. Congress, he says, is practically unanimous in support of a strong national defense for the United States, but the "lend-lease" measure is not in reality a defense measure. "Instead," he says, "it is designed to confer unheard of power in the hands of one man—the President."

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO

It was this day, (Sunday, Jan. 26), 100 years ago that Cincinnati had one of the greatest celebrations in its history. General William Henry Harrison left Cincinnati on his way to Washington to assume the Presidency.

He drove the day before from his home in North Bend to the city and stopped at the Henrie House, on Third Street between Main and Sycamore. It was the town's newest hotel. There was such a crowd waiting to welcome the President-Elect that he was unable for half an hour to get into the hotel. That night the crowd surged up and down Third Street in a wild enthusiasm and made so much noise the General couldn't sleep.

The next day at 10 o'clock he was scheduled to leave on the steamer Ben Franklin. The people had provided an open carriage with two beautiful horses led by grooms. But the General thought that too pompous. He decided to walk. And walk he did—at the head of a procession of uniformed militia and pretty much every other organization in the city. His Negro body-servant walked behind the General, carrying an armful of canes. It was the habit of the time to present Presidents with walking sticks, and when the Ben Franklin was reached the poor man staggered under the load of them. There were two cannon on the deck of the Franklin. These boomed a welcome. Once on board, the General stood on the after deck and, removing his gray beaver, made a speech of farewell—alas, it was a farewell forever to the city he loved.

DRINKING FOUNTAINS IN COURT HOUSE

It is to be hoped the Greene County Commissioners will take notice and act as quickly as possible on the recommendations made by the last Grand Jury to install drinking fountains in the court house. In the meantime it was suggested that paper cups be used in the various offices to eliminate the "tin drinking cup" that not only has been outlawed years ago but should be abolished as a step to better health safeguards. A similar recommendation was made for the county jail. The idea of a dozen or more prisoners drinking from a tin cup day after day, after hearing certain evidence against one of the prisoners confined at the time of inspection was more than the jury could stand. No jurymen would want a dog to drink from a cup following use by that one prisoner alone. We know the demand for funds by the commissioners for various purposes is great but there is no reason why the county government cannot observe both state and good health laws. We have faith that the present Commissioners will in due time follow the recommendation of the last grand jury.

Imagine this from Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, who has to be introduced each month to the White House kitchen: "It strikes us that some men do a lot of unnecessary traveling. Do they travel for business, pleasure, or just to get away from the office?"

How soon will we be told that the Declaration of Independence belongs to the horse and buggy days? It hasn't been so many months, since we were told that about the United States constitution.

The Akron Beacon Journal pictures Americanism thus: "Colorado people voting 3 to 1 in favor of a pension; voting 100 to 1 against a tax to pay for it."

Col. Charles Lindbergh has not yet been answered following his views before the House committee on hearings of the Roosevelt "Give England everything" bill. The war mongers have been stumped. Sen. Brooks, Ill., before the American Forum asked a dozen times "What is it we can do under this giveaway bill that we cannot do now without establishing a dictatorship here to fight dictatorship in Europe?"

When a New Dealer asked in connection with the war bill what business was it of preachers, teachers, farmers and doctors, what was in the "lend-lease" bill? What do they know about government, business or conditions in Europe?

Important! If any citizen happens by chance to see "open gambling" going on in Greene County it is his duty, according to Probate Judge Henrie, to report same to the officials. One local citizen in commenting on the recent speech by the Judge said that statement took him back twenty years ago whenever prohibition law enforcement was brought up. The new angle Judge Henrie put on his statement was not gambling but "open gambling" as he expressed it. That could mean if you saw four men sitting on the post office steps or the steps of the court house playing poker or "shooting dice," that would be open gambling but whoever saw a gambling game conducted in what must be termed "open space." The Judge did a good job of eliminating the behind-the-door gambling places in the county. He also took refuge in the statement that "law enforcement agencies in the county" reported "no gambling." How different from a year ago when Judge Henrie and his Democratic supporters were campaigning for a candidate for prosecuting attorney on the plea that "gamblers were running the county." Then as now we had a Republican Prosecutor and then we had a Democratic sheriff but the Judge was not making public speeches a year ago on gambling. He finds delight today with a Republican Prosecutor and a Republican Sheriff, the latter being in office less than a month, of talking about "open gambling," whatever that means.

One of the troublesome questions put to New Dealers about Roosevelt's recent lifting of the embargo on war supplies to Russia right at a time when we were asked to prepare for war to save Democracy is: "When did Russia become a Democracy or when was Stalin reformed?" Who knows but what Russia will buy our war materials and then turn them over to Germany? The Russia incident has proven a problem for the pro-English supporters to explain.

William C. Bullitt, former Ambassador to Russia and later to France, named to the first post as an admitted Communist, appeared before the House Committee on favoring the lease-lend bill even favoring war according to a former report. Bullitt did not stay long in Russia for he was forced to live like Russians and lay away his stuffed shirt. He returned home and later was sent to France.

Sen. Robert A. Taft in a radio address before the New York Bar Association, Saturday night, made one of the best speeches on the lease-lend bill that we have heard so far. His voice was smooth and clear and distinct. The Senator asked the important question as to what we could do for England we have not done. He favors outright gifts or loans if necessary to England, but cannot see what England can do with our navy, airplanes or war equipment as she has not been able to man boats Roosevelt sent over, not even airplanes. He says limiting time under the bill will mean nothing for the damage could be done within a month or a week after passage and then we would find a new emergency that calls for our soldiers. In fact a Roosevelt promise merits about as much consideration as a tomato has for respect of a marriage license down the alley after the mid-night hour.

If one is looking for freaks just check up on the kind of bills that are offered in most any state legislature and Ohio is no different from other states. Now a New Deal Senator from Cleveland wants a bill passed that will require every owner of a camera to take out a state license. Just where the amateur and professional lines are drawn the bill is not plain. In as much as it provides for a state board of five members. Licenses will cost $12 a year and $25 to take the examination, like the barber license bill, all the fees go as salaries to support the board and clerical help. Newspaper photographer would be exempt. To tie the hands of Gov. Bricker the bill would require him to name the state board from a list of the state association members. And we call this a free nation. We would guess the bill has little chance of passing. The fact that it comes from Cleveland should guarantee its defeat in the legislature.

After all this fuss about munitions output Roosevelt announced last week everything was progressing nicely and that there was very little labor disturbance. We pick up our evening paper and read of a dozen strikes in plants where more than 100 million dollar defense orders had been placed. Sen. Taft made the statement over the air Saturday night that according to government reports which he had checked, but four bomber planes had been delivered to the government during November. Hitler will get here if time has anything to do with it. Even Knudsen says we cannot expect much before late 1942. Yet they keep talking about the big German "push" taking place in March or April. If England is no better prepared than we are today it will take more than the Atlantic ocean to hold back the enemy.

We read in a Chicago paper of the millions of yards of woollens the government has ordered for army and navy uniforms. We turn next to the wool market to see what it was doing and strange to say the price had dropped on American wools. Importations of South American wools under the Roosevelt-Hull free trade treaty for good neighbor policy showed the foreign wool was being made into yardage for army and navy uniforms. In the meantime clothing dealers are having a hard time trying to get deliveries on spring merchandise due to factories being turned over for government use. The Ohio wool grower sees his wool lag in a home market while his government purchases foreign wool.

Everyone is entitled to his own opinion as to where to place truth and veracity in the lease-lend bill controversy. If you believe reports from the White House there is no opposition to the lease-lend bill for all the mail is supporting the measure. That might be true but after the experience on reports following the reorganization bill last year when the White House was flooded with protests, and reported no opposition, one must question the truth of reaction this year.

Sen. Robert A. Taft and Sen. Harold Burton each reported their mail is about forty to one against the Roosevelt dictator bill. Sen. Taft says his direct personal letter mail is about 3,000 a week. We get information that Ohio congressmen each report about the same ratio. One Democratic congressman whose name we cannot use for confidential reasons, says the letters from mothers of draftees is almost unanimous against the Roosevelt measure, yet this Congressman says he must vote with Roosevelt or be denied his share of patronage.

Congressman-at-large Stephen M. Young, Cleveland Dem., has an easy way of facing the controversy over the lease-lend bill. He writes and tells all objectors he was elected to back Roosevelt on everything and this he proposes to do right or wrong. This is what is termed an ideal rubber-stamp congressman. And you can purchase rubber stamps in a ten cent store for a thin dime—and sales tax.

Death records the passing of a

Greene county who once was rated one of the foremost and most successful farmers and especially one famous for his success in fruit growing. Having accumulated a small fortune by hard and diligent personal effort this farmer fell under the spell of a "blue-sky" shyster. It is said investment was made in what proved to be questionable values of certain blue-sky stocks to the tune of $40,000. Shortly afterwards this outstanding farmer, who apparently had enjoyed the best of health, suffered a nervous breakdown that developed into a mental disorder. For years he has been an invalid, and unable to transact his own affairs. Geiger-Jones! Where has the public heard that name before!

Springfield, steps were taken towards keeping a close connection by congregations of the denomination with members that are in draft service in the various camps in the country. Plans will include a program that will show the interest of the members back home in those who are required to give of their time for military training under government orders.

The Lutherans like leaders in other denominations realize that draftees of church congregations are thrown in company with all classes of people from all walks of life. It is also realized that wherever there is a government camp, all sorts of questionable places open up where vice thrives usually unmolested, though not under control of the war department. In the world war it was hard for even parents to keep in touch with their sons but the Lutherans plan to keep up interest with its members or others interested as never planned before.

Wednesday was an important day in Ohio history because it was the birthday of the late William McKinley, who was born in Niles, O., Jan. 29, 1843. He was a former governor of this state and the twenty-fifth president. While governor McKinley always wore a deep rose carnation, his favorite flower. The legislature in 1904 passed a resolution designating the rose carnation as the state flower. Thousands of Ohio citizens always wear a carnation on McKinley's birthday.

OHIO PASTORS VOTE AGAINST

LEND-LEASE BILL; 289 TO 53

The Ohio Pastors' Convention in Columbus voted 289 to 53, against the Roosevelt lend-lease bill, Wednesday. Rev. Donald Timmerman, Bellefontaine, led the opposition, said Roosevelt's position now was different than before the election. This bill he wants now "Means War". "We confirm our conviction that there is not, never has been and never will be a Holy War."

COLLEGE NEWS

Sherwood Eddy noted lecturer and writer was forced to cancel his engagement to speak with the Y. W. and Y. M. of Cedarville College as had been planned for Wednesday. The talk has been indefinitely postponed because of the illness of Mr. Eddy.

New Students enrolled for the second term include Miss Rachael Near of New Carlisle, Ruffin Fletcher of Ross, and William Meahl of Xenia. The student body is very glad to welcome these newcomers along with two former students, Miss Beatrice Collier of Xenia and Clayton Wiseman of Cedarville.

Members of the Alpha Theta Tau Sorority entertained Pledges with a dinner party at the home of Mrs. Eloise Kling last Thursday.

Thursday evening the Freshman Class entertained the student body of Cedarville College with an All College Dance.

The home of Clayton Wiseman was the scene of much merriment Tuesday evening when several of the college students enjoyed a coasting party there.

Reservations are being made now for Cedarville College's annual Homecoming, at 6 P. M. Saturday evening, February 8.

This event has long attracted a large number of alumni and former students who seldom have the opportunity of re-visiting the college, in addition to the many local friends of the college who make a habit of coming. It is a golden opportunity to renew friendships of college days and to see how your classmates are faring in their various activities. The ticket price of sixty cents includes dinner, the program, a basketball game, and a social hour after the game, for dancing or talking. As is customary, the Ladies Advisory Board will serve the Homecoming banquet—an ample guarantee that those who attend will have a good meal. Dinner is brief and varied, featuring selections of instrumental music by college students, Marion Van Tress, '44, of Springfield, and Ned Brown, '41, of Cedarville.

Special interest will be attached to the ball game, since first place in the Indiana-Ohio League will be at stake. Cedarville suffered its only league defeat in a hard-fought game at Fort Wayne last Saturday, losing to Indiana Tech. 39 to 36. So the team will have a triple incentive in fighting for this game: "revenge," a chance to regain a first-place tie with Indiana Tech, and the desire to show an enthusiastic Homecoming crowd that the Yellow Jackets can still fight on equal terms with the best of them.

Alumni and friends planning to attend Homecoming are urged to make their reservations with Miss Basore at the college office by Thursday, Feb. 6.

The boys also attended lectures on numerous farm problems.

Basketball

Cedarville vs. Bowersville
The C. H. S. basketball team took an easy 47-16 victory over Bowersville Friday, Jan. 24 at Cedarville. After rolling up a 21-6 lead at the half, Cedarville led by Corry who gathered 19 points, collected baskets while keeping the Bowersville boys to a low total.

The Cedarville Reserves, also showed a good defense as they limited the Jefferson seconds to two field goals and triumphed 17-4. Hertenstein scored 11 of Cedarville's points.

Cedarville's Junior High made it a clean sweep for the red and white by defeating the Jefferson Township boys 14-3.

Selma's towering basketball boys emerged with a 44-38 victory over Cedarville's team on Tuesday, January 28, on our home floor. Cedarville, after taking an early lead, trailed 21-19 at the half. Selma added to this lead and held the advantage throughout the game. Harold Corry again broke his own scoring mark for the year by flipping 23 points through the mesh. Cedarville's record for the year now stands at seven wins and five defeats.

Cedarville's Reserves defeated Selma 23-14. Wendell Ferryman with 10 and Eugene Judy 9 points, led the scoring for the Reserves whose record stands at seven victories and four defeats.
